The more you explore, the more you will know, and the more you will. Trainz Z Full Version 2004. Trainz Simulation. Courtesy of KHIS-FM With West Coast radio mainstay Peter Boberty joining the airwaves, there's another story to consider: Will every DJ be leaving so that we can all become CEO's of a reggae-rocking empire? Will we miss Greg Lima? Find out what KHIS DJ Michael "Elliott in the Morning" Shafer has to say about Boberty's passing. Where do you want to see the station in five years? I want to be in the exact same place that we are now, two and a half hours in the morning, two years from now. You know how you can't actually go to sleep early in the morning because you can't sleep. You just keep being restless? The only way to think you're going to sleep is to go to work? That's how I always felt in the morning. You were just talking about that earlier this week on air. (Laughs) Yeah. I still feel that, after all these years of doing radio. I've never really felt that way. When I was on your show, you could always tell when you were just in the middle of a long story and someone would say "Hey, that's a good one" and you'd say "That's not even a good one yet." You wouldn't continue that story. So I'm really glad that someone else is stepping in and doing that. So you're not that guy anymore? I'm that guy, but I'm not that guy. What's it like to be the last DJ on the air? I think it's a very interesting time for me. I spent the first 25 years

I'd like to have the rows of the view fade out when the keyboard is opened. There's a toggle option under View.Onscreen and some of the googling I've done says these things can be achieved through editing the View's onCreateInputConnection method, however, I'm not 100% sure how to do it. A: You don't want fade out on your own, as that is not possible. Instead, you want to focus the search (as a dropdown) when the keyboard pops up. KeyboardVisibilityChecker is exactly the thing you need to use. Here's a gist that does this very thing. Q: SPFieldValue access for item in List to update context.ListItem I'm trying to get a better understanding of the SPContext.ListItem to edit an item in a list but not sure what should be tried. I have a List with a field 'xyz'. This 595f342e71
