With their first-round draft pick in June, the Yankees will have three new starting pitchers, among a plethora of talented young athletes that should help the club go far in this year's playoffs and beyond. "We think we're going to have a strong and productive draft," team president Randy Levine said. "We're confident we'll add three or four starters and a top-of-the-rotation relief pitcher in the first round. We also feel very good about the quality of the draft and the depth of it." The Yankees have brought in top-flight talent in the past — Mark Teixeira, Robinson Cano 0cc13bf012
